THEY'RE OFF: Almost 2,000 runners hit the road (Ref: E9691A/25)

THOUSANDS of smiling faces turned out at the weekend for yet another June 9 extravaganza.

Almost 2000 runners completed a tough course in Sunday's Newcastle Brown Ale Blaydon Race.

There was a change of finishing line to Newburn Leisure Centre this year, because of Scotswood Bridge closure, so the going was tough with a brisk headwind and one particularly stiff climb near the end of the 6.4 mile course.

The crowd, which gathered at the start near St Nicholas' Cathedral on this 'summer afternoon', only just missed a wedding at the Cathedral.

But they were in happy mood as Blaydon Harriers' own Harry Halfpenny got them cheering in his build-up to the race and the presentation of the Blaydon Belle Sash to Lynda Beattie, from Dunston.

Campbell's the king of the road

As the Lord Mayor set them on their way with Jackie Broon's bell ... off they went along Collingwood Street (that's on the road to Newburn) ... and it was clearly not a day for anyone to make an early break.

The headwind showed itself as the long, snaking mass of runners weaved its way through the streets of central Newcastle and out on to the more exposed Scotswood Road. Scotswood Road and Scotswood Bridge are featured in much of the mystique of the Blaydon Races and it was appropriate the action should start in earnest at the bridge as the main contestants Mike McLeod and Paul Campbell got stuck in.

It is no secret that McLeod is not fully fit and he also had an encounter with a rusty nail on Scotswood Road. He stopped to yank it out of his foot and blood was streaming into his shoe at the end of the race.

But that's not to lessen Paul Campbell's superb run.

He emerged as leader on a short climb two miles from the finish and went on to notch up a massive 31 second gap over Mike.

The crowd that welcomed Paul had earlier seen Coun Bill Ainsworth maintain the Blaydon link by crossing the water to start the Dixon Sports Kiddies Blaydon Races Fun Run.

On a mainly bright, warm afternoon, the Newcastle Brown Ale Band and music from the Nike International Road Bus provided entertainment as they awaited the arrival of "all the lads and lasses" for their local food and Newcastle Brown Ale.

Among those finishing were two American couples, at least one Australian, and a German.

When asked by the race organiser whether he understood the German OK, one race official replied "Why man he taaks better English than ye!"

The race organiser would like to thank everyone involved - including that official. See you all in the Post next year.
